

We are the Stories

The thing that throws a lot of scientists with a mystical bent for a loop, and people in general, is when they come to realize that we are all collections of stories, that 'REALITY' is telling to better understand itself, but also that space / time / matter / energy" are also 'sentient stories', not so different than any other sentient story, such as us.

There is no enduring 'separation';

there simply could never be.

Fortunately for us, we are the AWARENESS that tells the stories, 'Bunching ourselves up' into 'waves within" and not some computer game generated by transcendent forces, like the many religions would have us believe, to solidify their worldly political power.

We in fact, BELONG TO OURSELVES.
