

Lots of High Strangeness: Zero Nuts or Bolts to be Found

I do not know for certain if 100% of all claims for permanent, durable, pure 'nuts and bolts craft' are pure disinformation, or whether the number is more like 95%.

I and others have known this for decades.

Now, 'temporary' 'nuts and bolts craft' that have strong 'Oz effect' that appears on radar, burns the landscape, bounce off missiles are genuine.... but once the space/time 'overlap' that powers the effect fades away, so do the craft.

There's also 'long-lasting' craft' composed of 'dream substance' that the Fae/gray use, that sometimes last a long time, but they do fade out eventually. And there's nothing to reverse engineer.

There's also 'plasma slag' that is '3d printed' sometimes', generally leaving behind stuff like JV puzzled over with the different isotopic ratios is a thing... sometimes even 'eggs'. But there's no usable tech in that either, other than the unusual material characteristics.

In terms of 'hard craft' like I said, 95% or 100% Since about 1933 have ALL been fraud.

Now the Phenomenon generates all SORTS of supernormal events, but it's generally transitory, and has little or nothing to do with 'genuine UFOs' and these supernormal events happen for most of us multiple times over our lifetimes.

Other non-ship visitors happen all the time too, through the 'cosmic' mycelial network'.

Lots of High Strangeness: Zero Nuts or Bolts to be Found

Just tons of unusual visitors and effects... but the thing that so many just HUNGER for --- 'ships' that's like hen's teeth as 'advanced lifeforms' don't tend to use them.

They are either here temporarily or insubstantially, and even if they are here more substantially, they don't use ships to get here.

It's a paraphrase of Stanton Friedman:

“Lots of UFO reports, no UFOs”;

“LOTS of UFO deception. LOTS of high strangeness.

Not one nut or bolt to be found.”

Kevin Cann
Public Domain
6/8/2025