

Autonomous Systems Within and Beyond Time and Platonic Surrealism

Everything at its core is an autonomous system that clumps up with other autonomous systems and gains complexity when within time, and already has all that complexity when 'outside of time'.

Like Silly Putty. It can assume any form.

Really, all the isms futz with either the timeful or the timeless, but never put them together.

That's PS's advancement over Plotinus, Marcion and other isms.

If you trap yourself in time, you go insane.

If you refuse to 'do time' you go insane (it's that divine restlessness I've discussed remembering).

So dance between the two, that is Platonic Surrealism, the meeting of past, present and future in a configuration that reduces suffering and promotes creativity and contentment.

Kevin Cann
Public Domain
7/15/2025