The Black Iron Prison

Whether you use chemicals or mystical practices:

When you pause the isolated self (the conscious rational mind) and rejoin the rest of who you are, the mechanism is much the same as has been shown by neurological studies; you are suppressing the chatty isolated mind so that your 'big picture' mind can emerge from its long hiding. For a long time science thought that chemicals turned on all this 'crazy activity' when in fact it turns off the crazy (the isolated mind).

Only some of this 'big picture mind' is located in the right brain hemisphere; some is located in the enteric and visceral nervous system (20% of all neurons are in the gut for example)

One of the minds executes from the cold plasma symbiosis mind that lives in us all (it's called 'the Phenomenon') and the last mind is completely what some would call nonphysical, the 'monadic mind'. Now the monadic mind is easy to miss unless you know how to experience it, as a single 'thought' can take 50 years to execute sometimes.

Some call the reactive mind (the conscious rational mind in conjunction with the unpurified plasma symbiosis mind
'the black iron prison or demiurge'

The White Crystal Prison

Some call the monadic mind and the purified plasma symbiosis mind the 'white crystal prison'.

The reason that one might all the Monadic mind the ‘white crystal prison’, is because it is ‘maniacal’ and doesn’t care who or what it hurts, so long as it gets what it wants, and it often refuses to collaborate with other Monads, the other pieces of itself.
(‘Spiritual people’ are almost innately incapable of working with each other).

Thus ‘trapping itself’ in its doomed missions’ to ‘save the world’ or whatever other ridiculous thing it’s trying to accomplish.

What some would call ‘the Pleroma’ isn’t necessarily wise when it’s executing through Fractured Consciousness.

The only way that the Monadic streams can become truly ‘wise’ is by ‘polishing the mirror’ for itself, so it can see what it is, and what it is doing --- to gain perspective.

One of the reasons that we ‘come here’ is to gain that perspective.

The ’mirror’ is in fact the plasma symbiosis body, also known by some Gnostics as ‘Yaldabaoth’.

The Plasma symbiosis body lives in all of us, as without it we couldn’t be sentient; it acts as a bridge between the purely ‘physical’ (it’s a dream of physicality actually) and the more informational/energy aspects of things, such as the other 99% of the plasma of our Universe, which is the full body of ‘Yaldabaoth’ not just the few drops of the ocean ‘inside us’.

Now how this usually works, is that some person will come along, who for reasons of the movie production here in our world, has a well-polished ‘mirror’ (purified plasma symbiosis) with concurrent Monad streams, and such a person who lives in this configuration for a while is said to be experiencing ‘liberation’, and this configuration can remind others, that they can experience this as well, if they desire it.

That’s the key there; people cannot have the desire to ‘wake up’ to their future potential, unless they see it demonstrated, so that they know it’s real.

Now the poor sod who is temporarily demonstrating ‘liberation’ is often killed or at least quite harangued, so it’s not a very good deal, and does not even include dental care (you’ll notice the great ones from the past had bad teeth).

In any case, liberation is a temporary thing, as the currents of life are very playful, and the game of liberation is also a temporary game. It can sometimes last trillions of years, but eventually it will be reset and the whole process starts over.

It’s the great jigsaw puzzle metaphor you see.

Once everything that can be learned is learned, everything that can be experienced is experienced, once particular Monads have ‘done it all’, then for 10 to the -10^{th} seconds the ‘Fractured Mind’ becomes the ‘Primordial Mind’ once again… it can’t maintain that for long, and it all breaks apart again --- the giant jigsaw puzzle is turned over and you start all over again, as it’s the ‘only game in town’.

That's how it works.

For this reason, those who are close to being 'permanently' 'liberated' tend to resist the last few pieces being put in place, as once that's done, it's all over and starts from scratch.

Escaping the Black Iron Prison

There really is a 'black iron prison'. It is composed of our reactive minds as programmed by culture. In effect the Camel phase of Nietzsche's three-part system describing men.

All of Platonic Realism deals with recognizing and healing the reactive mind and learning to reintegrate across all five minds that compose a human being.

Escaping the White Crystal Prison

The monads and monad groups that power your current and other lives, all think that they are the cat's meow when it comes to wisdom, and as a general rule they want to force their wisdom on others, to make things 'better'. Better for themselves for sure.

But this is just another control system, the TYRRANY OF THE HIGHER SELF.

Such monad groups tend to send philosophers to the world, in part, yes, because they genuinely care, but also so that they may feel better themselves, as the more they can push their 'personal worldview shit' on others, the more they feel that they are 'winning' and doing 'the will of the light'.

Only they are often not.

Until you no longer need to be Jesus or Paul or Plato or whomever, you haven't become WHOLE. Life takes care of itself and doesn't need anyone's meddling… and in fact everyone's 'meddling' is part of the great mosaic anyway… so in that sense It's needed… (All road lead to Rome).

So how do you escape the White Crystal Prison of the Monadic Pleroma?

Easy.

Let yourself be wrong.

Learn from others, even if you have a 200 IQ and they have a 100 IQ.

Truly live "REALITY has no preferred state" yet still be loving.

The 'secret' here is that the numberless Monads are all hungry for experience, especially 'life experience' and they all start from a different part of the giant 'sphere' (metaphor) at a different coordinate set, and they all branch out, reaching out to all the others.

If one of your brother/sister monads / monad groups is quite different from you, you needn't necessarily put them down. Even if you disagree with them 100%, and yes in fact the whole lot of them are racist, sexist, world-destroying putzes (whatever a putz is), but by coming to understand them, by being willing to take a 'download from them', then you DO NOT HAVE TO LIVE A LIFE AS THEM, not that there is anything wrong with them.

If you DOWNLOAD/SHARE DATA from other monads and monad groups, YOU BECOME WHOLE. AS A MONAD, YOU BECOME WHOLE, AS INNATELY MONADS ARE NOT WHOLE EITHER.

Once you realize this, once you learn to learn from those you hate or greatly dislike (sounds like Jesus now doesn't it?), you don't have to become them, you don't have to FIX THEM, as once your monad group and theirs eventually merge up, YOU ARE THEM, and this is how you 'escape from the White Crystal Prison'.

I LOVE YOU, ALL THE PEOPLE I TRULY DETEST! THANK YOU FOR YOUR SERVICE TO US ALL.

Kevin Cann
Public Domain
3/23/2025